such a possibility.

My husband and I went to the hospital last Thursday to try to find out more and again the doctor would tell us nothing but he did say "he hadn't said [redacted] had Homosexual tendencies and had seen no signs of such behavior which he had been in charge of the ward.

A Chaplain who also attended the meeting and (who evidently felt concerned over our deep distress), followed us out when the meeting ended. He said he had talked to [redacted] often, and had seen his chart and that Homosexuality was not mentioned on the chart.

He did say however, that [redacted] was a sexual. That he had not developed sexually and was still about a fourteen year old boy.

While that was hard enough to take, the chaplain was so kind he seemed to lift a great load off my shoulders.
